Dear Trinity Students and Families,

We had planned to send to you today a letter detailing the specific amounts that we are crediting your student accounts for the portion of the spring semester during which the college's academic program is operating remotely. Unfortunately, the complex work to complete this process is taking longer than we expected. I know that President Berger-Sweeney indicated in earlier communications that we would be in touch with details before the end of this week, so I wanted to let you know of this delay.

I apologize for the inconvenience. We are working as quickly and efficiently as possible; we want to be sure to both get this right and to share the details with you at a time when we can ensure folks are on hand to answer any questions you might have. We will be back in touch with you about this as early as possible in the coming week. Again, I'm sorry for the delay, and I thank you for your patience and understanding.

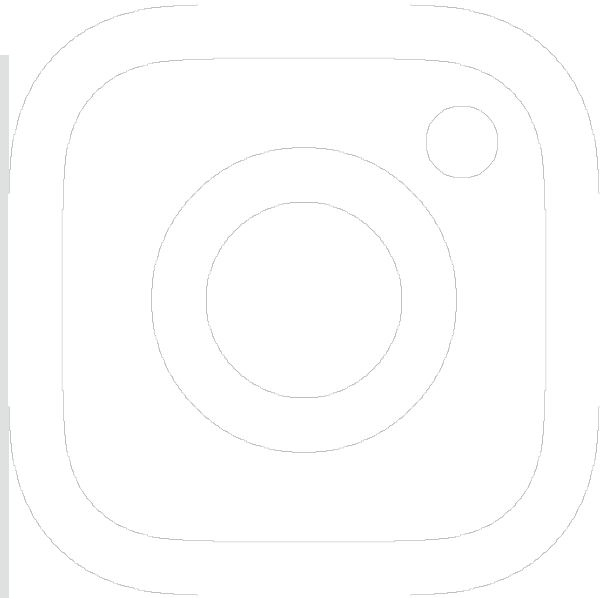

Sincerely,

Dan Hitchell
